Materials needed:

- ⊗ About ½ yard of cotton fabrics
- ⊗ About ¼ of a yard of polyester batting
- ⊗ Heavy weight interfacing
- ⊗ Instead of batting and heavy weight interfacing you could also use thick fusible webbing/ interfacing
- ⊗ Acrylic felt for the 'pages' inside
- ⊗ A piece of elastic and a button for the closure
- ⊗ Ribbons, fabric flowers etc. for decorating the needle case

Instructions

We'll need:

- ⊗ 1x cover piece from main fabric
- ⊗ 1x cover piece from lining fabric
- ⊗ 1x cover piece from heavy weight iron on interfacing
- ⊗ 1x cover piece from polyester batting
- ⊗ 1x pocket piece
- ⊗ 2x 'pages' from acrylic felt
- ⊗ 1 button, a piece of elastic and some decorations

Iron the interfacing to the back side of the main fabric.

Fold the pocket piece in half horizontally and press.

I cut out some fabric as decorations, but you can also use crochet flowers, ribbons, iron ons etc.

Then I sewed some ribbons and the flower decorations to the main fabric cover.

I also sewed one of the flowers to the cover lining.

Pin the pocket piece to the cover lining, baste along the outside edges, then sew a few vertical seams to make smaller pockets for fabric pencils, seam rippers etc. I also sewed a small ribbon loop to the top to attach a clasp or key ring.

Baste the polyester batting to the back of the main fabric cover.

Sew the felt 'pages' to the center of the cover lining.

Fold the elastic in half and tack it down in the center of the right side of the cover lining piece.

Pin the cover pieces from main and lining fabric right sides together and sew them together along the outer edge, leaving a 2-3" turning hole.

Clip the corners so the fabric lies nice and flat once it's been turned inside out.

Turn the fabric inside out through the turning hole.

Top stitch along the outer edges, closing the turning hole. Alternatively you could just close the turning hole by hand.

Sew a button to the cover at the height of the elastic on the other side.

And our pretty needle case is all done.

I felt like adding some sparkle to it and glued a sparkly flower to the button.

I hope you enjoyed this little project 😊
